INVITED EXPERT:

Alejandra Vicencio

EAIE Committee Chair, Northumbria University, United Kingdom

With more than 20 years of experience in leadership and the management of global mobility and partnerships, Ale has participated in the Amity Institute Exchange Programme in South Carolina, been an academic of TESOL and Linguistics at Universidad Católica de Chile, and founded a Spanish immersion school in Santiago de Chile.

Ale has a Bachelor's degree in English literature from the University of Chile and a Master's in international development from Northumbria University. She is passionate about internationalising higher education in a development context, and based her postgraduate research on this topic and the benefits of the BECAS Chile Programme.

At the time of development, Ale was working at Northumbria University as Head of International Mobility in charge of all strategic developments of international mobility programmes for students and staff, funding and partner relations. She has also been a member of the University's Strategy Advisory Group since January 2023.

At EAIE, Ale has also been a mentor and Chair of the Mobility Advising Expert Community for the 2022 to 2024 term. She was also Co-Chair of the Risk Management Group at UUKi's Outward Mobility Network from 2020 to 2022.
